“Donald Sultan’s new series of images at Ryan Lee is the first exhibition of his Mimosas, inspired by a presentation of the blossoms he received from a friend in the South of France. He began using the structure of the ornamental plant that grows in warm temperate regions of the world to continue his five-decade investigation of the space between abstraction and representation, exploring boundaries between the organic and the industrial, the invented and the natural, thinking and feeling.”

(via artefuse: https://artefuse.com/2019/04/23/donald-sultan-mimosa-paintings-and-drawings-at-ryan-lee/)

Ryan Lee Gallery: https://ryanleegallery.com/exhibitions/donald-sulant-mimosa-paintings-and-drawings/